BOAT BURNING FOR BEGINNERS

SWAPPING OUR 9-5'S WITH SUCCESSFUL SELF-EMPLOYMENT

What was the moment you realized staying in your 9-5 was no longer an option? How did that realization shift your path?

In transitioning to self-employment, what was your biggest fear, and how did you push through it?

Looking back, how would you have prepared differently for this leap? What advice would you give your past self?

Recall the moment you made your first sale. How did it feel, and what did it symbolize for you?

What's the most valuable lesson you've learned that you wish every aspiring entrepreneur knew?

Write about a significant mistake you made and the lesson you took away from it.

What mindset shifts were critical in moving from an employee mindset to an entrepreneurial one?

What tools, networks, or support systems have been essential in building your new career?

How have you turned the struggles of self-employment into a deeper sense of purpose and fulfillment?

When things felt uncertain, what kept you motivated in your pursuit of success?

How do you define success now?
